Bonus Compensation

20. There is under some Bonus Programs offered by the Company, however the amount of Bonus can be credited to the Trading Account may be limited by the Bonus Compensation. The Bonus Compensation is the amount of Bonus lost as a result of losing trades. Ensure that a Trading Account does not have a Bonus if the Bonus Compensation is greater than the amount of Bonus calculated in accordance with the "Net Deposit".

How Bonus Compensation is Working

Scenario - 1

Suppose Client activates the Bonus of 10% for his Trading Account. The Client's Net Deposit is equal to 500 USD and the amount of Bonus credited is equal to 50 USD(10% on 500 USD). He makes a series of losing trades, losing 550 USD. The amount of Bonus Compensation becomes 50 USD.

After that, he deposits 500 USD further. The Bonus will be calculated as follows:
 $1,000 \times 10 / 100 = 100 \text{ USD}$

So, considering the Bonus Compensation amount, the size of Bonus would be: $100 - 50 = 50 \text{ USD}$. However, the Bonus of 50 USD will be automatically credited to the Trading Account.

Scenario - 2

Suppose the Client consequently makes a series of profitable trades, gaining 500 USD. His Balance is 500 USD plus the Bonus of 50 USD as per in Scenario 1. Then he withdraws a total of 900 USD which is subject to any limitations is associated with the type of Trading Account and/or the Client Agreement, and less any fees.

In this case, Bonus will be recalculated in harmony with the changed net Deposit value:

$1,000 - 600 = 400 \times 10 / 100\% = 40 \text{ USD}$

So here considering the Bonus compensation amount, the size of Bonus would be $40 - 100 = -60 \text{ USD}$. However, the Trading Account will not be credited with any bonus, since the Bonus Compensation is greater than the amount of Bonus calculated in accordance to the Net Deposit.

Scenario 3

Suppose the Client deposits 500 USD to his Trading Account and did not have withdrawals amount. Then the Bonus will be calculated as $500 - 0 \times 10 / 100\% = 50 \text{ USD}$.

Therefore, the Company will automatically credit the Bonus of 50 USD to the Trading Account as soon as possible while the deposit is made.

Scenario 4

Similarly, suppose the Client deposits 500 USD to his Trading Account and receives a Bonus of 50 USD. Then he accordingly makes a series of trades with losses totaling 500 USD. His Balance is 0 USD with a bonus of 50 USD. After that the Client may withdraw 0 USD that means the bonus of 50 USD neither can be withdrawn nor shall be deducted.

Scenario 5

Suppose, the Client deposits 2,000 USD to his Trading Account and receives 200 USD (10% of Bonus) on Net Deposit then total amount will be 2200 USD. In that case he will be able to withdraw only 2000 USD. Why, because the Client cannot withdraw Bonus of 200 USD, that will be deducted automatically while he was withdrawing entire amount from his account.

Please note: that the Client cannot fully withdraw all of the funds from his Trading Account and trade only with the Bonus. If the Client withdraws all of the funds from his Trading Account, the Bonus will be deducted. The Bonus can only be used for trading purposes and cannot be withdrawn unless this is specifically provided for by the conditions of certain Bonus Programs.*
